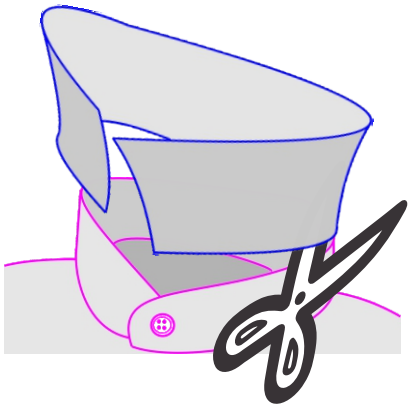
Simple directions on

How to Make a Pioneer Shirt

from a regular Men's button up shirt

1. Find a solid white or earth-toned colored, long-sleeved shirt that is one size larger than you would normally wear (pioneers wore their shirts more loosely than we do today).



2. Unfold Collar
3. Carefully cut off the upper collar, leaving the band collar.
4. If you would like to go a step further, you could unpick the seam between the upper collar and the band, remove the upper collar, and re-stitch the band closed.
5. If your shirt had a button-down collar. Remove the buttons.
6. Remove any front pocket carefully with a seam ripper.
